

Niche climate exposure

Projected climate change is measured relative to the centre and empirical boundary of the current realised climatic niche.

The drawing is conceptual; all metric values are calculated in the full sensitivity weighted climatic space before plotting.